Originally founded in 1972 as the Postal History Society of Ontario, our name was changed in 1977 to reflect the expanded nature and scope of our interests. The PHSC is a non-profit organization that promotes the study of Canadian postal history and communication among members at all levels of expertise. The Society publishes an award-winning 72-page quarterly, the PHSC Journal. Contents include a balance from fully-researched feature articles to items of current interest on the full spectrum of BNA postal history – from the pre-stamp era through the various postmark specialities, postal rates and routes, and regional histories. We encourage postal historians and members of the Society to share their knowledge by submitting articles for publication in the Journal. The Society maintains and develops an extensive website at containing a wide variety of postal history information and growing searchable reference databases of BNA postal history, developed by members across the country. The databases will ultimately contain complete historical listings of Canadian post offices and detail of most of the postmark types used over the last two centuries. The website also offers a searchable repository of past copies of the Journal and many study group newsletters, as well as many other publications and exhibits. Via its Allan Steinhart Memorial Fund, the PHSC provides support for research in postal history. The Society hosts popular monthly presentations Under the Covers on postal history topics via Zoom. Postal history is a significant component of the social history of Canada. We welcome your interest and active participation!
